The breezes at the opera house "can't be beat," while the lights at the Arcade are the best ever turned on at a Newberry motion picture show.

Mrs. R. H. Anderson's mother, Mrs. Janie Kistler Morris, wife of Mr. A. A. Morris, died at her home in Greenwood early Saturday morning.

The Calcora County club will meet with Miss Marietta Langford on Nance street Friday morning, July 31, at 11:30 o'clock.

Those interested in the Beth Eden graveyard will please meet there on Tuesday morning, August 4, at 8 o'clock.

Don't let a single thing that can hold stale water remain on your premises.—Spartanburg Herald. Law, what's the use. They'll throw them out in yard spiterin everything.

"The Perils of Pauline," every Friday, and Our Mutual Girl, every Monday, at the Arcade-Air dome, are holding the attention of crowds of people. They grow more interesting and thrilling.

Mr. Dennis, of Prosperity, has been appointed by the State agricultural department as tick eradicator in this county. He is now here and on the job every day. He and his wife have rooms with C. P. Boland.—Saluda Standard.

There wouldn't be so much heckling at some of the campaign meetings in the State if the people attending always satisfied their thirst by drinking buttermilk.—Spartanburg Journal. That wouldn't keep them from being buttlers.

The annual Newberry college reunion at Little Mountain will be held on Friday, August 7. The welcome address will be delivered by Arthur B. Jindler. President J. Henry Harms of the college, and Rev. H. A. McCollough and F. W. Cappleman, Esq., of Columbia will make addresses.

It's getting to be so now that when a man announces that he is going to run for an office, it means that he is going to make a running fight in order to keep the other fellow from getting it.—Wilmington Sta. Is it about Jennings and Pollock you are twinkling so brightly?

Leesville News: "We congratulate Newberry upon the orderly meeting held there. It being the home of the governor many were expecting a noisy demonstration for him without regard for the rights of the other candidates. We therefore think the authorities and citizens of Newberry did themselves honor and did a good piece of advertising by their behavior just at that time".

Mr. Duncan is holding the crowds this year and at every meeting he has received close attention, and the crowd always wants him to speak longer. He is keeping up a steady pounding on what he calls the "system" and is undoubtedly one of the most interesting campaigners of the year.—Calhoun Advance.

The reporter is running a little series on the great white star Capella, like the motion picture shows. Has The Herald and News induced anyone to observe this brilliant orb low down in the northwest along about nightfall? It is worth looking at, this stupendous star, whose luminosity is 100 times the sun's and whose strength, gravitationally, is a thousand times greater. The scientist already quoted says that this strange and beautiful celestial object is in reality a double star (and one of the most wonderful in the heavens) probably "only" fifty millions of miles apart. Lift up your heads in amazement as "the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork." "Night unto night showeth knowledge."

My Work at Winthrop College.

On July the 2nd I started to Rock Hill for my ten days short course which I won as follows: I planted seed in March and had fine luck. I transplanted my plants the first of May and considering the dry weather I had good success. I hoed them and had them plowed when necessary; I worked only 13 hours in my tomato plot, so you may know my delight when I was notified that I had won one of the free trips to Winthrop college.

The work done at Winthrop was very instructive. We took four studies a day, gardening, dairying, cooking and poultry. I want to tell you a few points we learned in gardening. We should always break our land deep to prevent gullies, washes and waste, prepare thoroughly, harrow after breaking and add vegetable matter to keep the soil open. If we do this we will have no trouble with our seed and plants. When dry plant seed in a little drill, then roll a wheelbarrow over them to pack so moisture will be kept, then put loose dirt on top and you will have a good stand.

The girls had the pleasure of several trips to the college dairy where we saw 75 milch cows—here we were taught how to judge a good cow, and how to care for the milk. A good milch cow should have bright active eyes; she need not be so fat, her bones should be seen and she should have sleek hair and should give two gallons of milk a day.

Our cooking classes were very instructive and seemed to appeal to all the girls. We were all urged to make a fireless cooker for our homes. In the poultry yard we were taught that chickens should be hatched early and are generally better, they should be all one pure breed.

On July the 15th we finished our work of the short course, feeling that we had indeed been fortunate to be able to enjoy the ten days at Winthrop. It is my pleasure to thank Dr. Johnson and all the teachers at Winthrop for their kindness shown us during our short course. I also wish to thank our State agent, county agent and the Winthrop Daughters of Newberry county for making the trip possible. I shall do all in my power to encourage other girls in the county to work for this prize.

Edna Minick.

St. Lukes, S. C.

Tomato Club Work.

Following is the recipe for the boiled dressing, used at the demonstration last Friday:

One teaspoonfull salt, one teaspoonfull mustard, one teaspoonfull pepper, one and one half tablespoonful sugar, one fourth cup vinegar, one tablespoonful flour, two egg yolks, one and one half tablespoonful melted butter, three fourths cup milk.

Mix dry ingredients, add yolks of eggs slightly beaten, butter, milk and vinegar very slowly. Cook over boiling water until mixture thickens. Test as for soft custard. Strain and cool.

Death of John Wallace.

Mr. John A. Wallace died at his home at Belfast, 14 miles west of this city, Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, in the 64th year of his age, after an extended illness of paralysis, with which he was stricken last October. He was buried at Bush River church on Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, service conducted by the Rev. Mr. Lightfoot, of Clinton, and Rev. W. R. Bouknight, of Kinards. Mr. Wallace is survived by his wife and a son, Mr. Herbert Wallace, of Belfast, also by two brothers, Mr. W. H. Wallace, of the city, and Mr. Robert G. Wallace, of Belfast.

FOR PANAMA EXPOSITION

South Carolina Cannot Afford to Be Out of the Picture—Popular Subscription—Bronze Medal.

The opening of the Panama Canal, which literally dividing North and South American, practically unites the world, bringing most of the chief ports of the great nations nearer together by thousands of miles; moving the Straits of Magellan 3,500 miles northward. The trip from New York to San Francisco can now be made in 14 days, whereas it formerly took 24 days under the most favorable conditions. Water and rail competition in this way means increased opportunity and economy in transportation, effecting the interests of every American citizen, but particularly the people of this achievement is the culmination of four centuries of dreaming—ever since Charles V. of Spain had a survey made across the Isthmus in 1520.

The United States is to pay $375,000,000 for this work, and engineers say that it is the cheapest piece of good work on record. Three vital elements entered into the successful building of this canal—elements which could hardly have been found in any other nation. "The financial resources of a very rich nation, the constructive and administrative genius of Americans, and the ability to cope with the diseases of the Tropics." In brief, money, brains, and health. It is generally conceded that the building of this Canal is the most stupendous engineering achievement in the history of the world, and its opening will be a notable event, influencing trade conditions in the remotest corners of the earth. As a consequence of changing routes of ocean travel, new migrations of men will take place, and new financial and trade connections will develop.

Much as the opening of the canal will mean to the world generally, and to the American nation in particular, it manifestly will signify more for our Southern States than for any other region. The South is a great producer, but it is a lamentable fact that our direct world trade is very limited. The opening of this canal offers to the South the greatest opportunity it will ever had to develop a foreign trade.

Because of its advantageous situation and excellent seaport, South Carolina should immediately and permanently enjoy these benefits most abundantly. But are we alive to our opportunity? Let us wake up, and arouse interest before it is too late.

The Panama Pacific International Exposition, to celebrate the completion of the canal, will open February 20, 1915. You know, of course, of the magnitude of this exposition, in which 36 foreign nations will participate, and most of our own States. Forty-three States have already accepted the invitation to erect State buildings and send exhibits. Among all the States of importance should South Carolina alone be "conspicuous by her absence?"

Since our legislature failed to make an appropriation to erect a State building and send an exhibit, is it not our duty, as individuals, to see that we are creditably represented there? Ignoring the matter of State pride, would it not be poor business policy to neglect this opportunity of exploiting our resources and natural advantages? We can not afford to sit still ourselves with the fallacious notion that the trade of the world will come to us unsought. Our advantages will never be known unless we proclaim them.

About 50 of the most prominent men throughout the State have been invited to form a commission for the purpose of raising the necessary funds for a South Carolina building and exhibit at this exposition, and it is our duty to help them. They do not ask for large sums from a few rich people, but prefer small amounts from everybody, so that we may all feel a proprietary interest in the building, and in the success of the undertaking.

While the commissioners have not entirely completed their plans they are working hard, and we feel confident that such of us who find it possible to go to Exisco during the exposition, will find pleasant headquarters at the South Carolina building on the exposition grounds.

Contributions for this cause will be gladly received at this office, and for every donation of $1.00 will be given a bronze medal, as an official souvenir receipt.

Death of An Aged Maiden.

Miss Gertrude Edwards died at the home of her nephew, Mr. E. A. Edwards, on Mr. Thomas Davenport's Belfast place, on last Wednesday evening and was buried at the Little river burying ground Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. She was 86 years old.

Death of Mrs. Franklin.

Mrs. D. I. Franklin died at her home in West End on Thursday night, at 11:30 o'clock, of tuberculosis, after a lingering illness all the year and was buried at Rosemont on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, service by the Rev. Globe Smith. Mrs. Franklin was 37 years old. Besides her husband she leaves four little children—three boys and one girl—to mourn her death. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Amelia Dozer, and one sister, Mrs. Annie Haseltan, all of Newberry.

Mrs. Anna Scurry Strother.

Johnston, July 23.—Mrs. Anna Scurry Strother, widow of the late David R. Strother, died on Tuesday evening at her home here, at 7 o'clock, after a long and painful illness. She was 63 years of age. For several years she had been in failing health and for the past two years or more had been confined to her bed.

She was a woman of great fortitude and bore her affliction with patience. She was of a quiet and gentle demeanor, a good friend, loving mother and a true Christian, being a member of the Baptist church.

During her suffering she was surrounded by her six children, Mesdames J. W. Stimeus of this place, D. B. Hollingsworth of Edgefield, Clifford Mitchell of Batesburg, David Howard of Ridge and two sons, James and David Strother.

A sister, Mrs. J. F. Browne of Spartanburg, and a brother, John Scurry of Newberry, survive her.

The burial took place on Wednesday at 6 o'clock, being conducted by the Rev. G. W. Hutchinson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, in absence of her pastor, Dr. King.

Early Closing Saturday Night.

I have no ax to grind, but write in the interest of humanity and good morals. I should be glad if the merchants would agree to close their stores at 9 o'clock Saturday nights. It requires no Solomon to see that those who hang around the stores and loaf on the streets at night are seeking no good. If it is a good thing to close at six other evenings it is better to shut up at nine Saturday night. As it is the merchants and clerks work until about 11 o'clock and then go to the barber, who can't get home until Sunday morning. We seem to have gotten into a bad rut without concentrated effort to get out. What do citizens think of early closing Saturday night? Onlooker.

Admit Now That It Will Be Close in Georgetown.

Writing in the News and Courier of July 22, W. F. Caldwell, that newspaper's Columbia correspondent, says:

There is no doubt that the State administration has organized or attempted to organize in each county. It was known that in Georgetown county a caucus of the Blease forces was held following the speaking of the candidates for State offices there, and it was openly reported that the caucus had agreed to support John G. Richards for governor and the Blease ticket right down the line. This was said to have been the same method followed in Williamsburg county, where, however, the Blease forces are in a hopeless minority. Georgetown is going to be close for the Bleases and are well organized there and have control of the county executive committee.

CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sease Receive Friends at Prosperity.

Prosperity, July 26.—At 12 o'clock on Tuesday, July 7, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sease celebrated their silver wedding. Their country home was beautifully decorated, the color scheme being green and silver, with touches of pink roses. Upon arriving at the house the guests were received by Mrs. C. T. Wyche and Miss Annie Mae Bedenbaugh. They were conducted to the punch bowl, which was in a bower of beautiful vines on one side of the spacious veranda. Here Miss Isoline Wyche and Miss Kate Mae Nance gracefully presided. The guests were then conducted into the parlor by Mrs. J. W. Nance, where the host and hostess were receiving congratulations, standing under a large silver bell with a background of green vines and ferns, interspersed with silver bells here and there. The hostess wore a gown of silver gray messaline, with a touch of pink, lovely in its simplicity.

In the receiving line were the hostess's sisters, Mesdames Singley and Swygert, and sister-in-law, Mesdames Eugene Kibler, Haskell Kibler and Florence Kibler.

The dining room was lovely with Virginia creeper and roses and here the presents were displayed. These were numerous and very beautiful, attesting the popularity of the host and hostess.

The guests were invited to the oak grove in front of the house, where a most sumptuous barbecue dinner was served to about 200 guests.

A True Picture.

Orangeburg Times and Democrat. There are two classes of great men. Some work for their own glory, picking up the path that leads to the admiration and applause of their fellow men, which clothes them with great authority and power, causing them to be apparently above their fellow citizens, although in reality they may be unworthy of the suspicion of greatness. To this class belong most politicians, most fortune makers, and other self-seeking individuals.

The other class is busy working for the eternal betterment of their fellow man, and heeds little the praise or the censure of their world. Because of the promise of good to come they are willing to bear hardships, seek favors, and labor through days and nights of discouragement and disappointment to uplift others.

Sunday School Convention.

The Interdenominational Sunday school convention will meet at King's Creek the 5th Sabbath in August. George S. Ruff, S. J. Cromer, Secretary. President.
